Authors can submit books until the end of 2014

For immediate release:

EDMONTON, AB, November 13, 2014 – The Alberta Readers' Choice Award has opened the call for book submissions from Alberta authors beginning now until Dec. 31, 2014.

Sponsored by the Edmonton Public Library, the Alberta Readers' Choice Award is awarded annually for the best fiction or narrative non-fiction book written by an Alberta author.

The $10,000 prize – presented annually by EPL and one of Alberta's richest literary prizes – recognizes exceptional writing in our province and encourages readers to support local authors.

"We are fortunate to have the writing talent we do in our province," said Linda Cook, CEO of EPL. "There is always a variety of quality work submitted for this award and I look forward to seeing the list of finalists."

Past winners include Fishing for Bacon by Michael Davie (2010), Letters from the Lost by Helen Waldstein Wilkes (2011), Fall From Grace by Wayne Arthurson (2012), The Shore Girl by Fran Kimmel (2013) and Almost a Great Escape by Tyler Trafford (2014).

To be eligible for the award, books must be published between Jan. 1, 2014 and Dec. 31, 2014. Only works of fiction and narrative non-fiction are eligible, and books must be a first edition full-length novel, short story collection or book of poetry written by an Alberta author who has been a resident of the province for the last 12 months.
